TWO MORE MINUTES OF SUNLIGHT by Penny Stone

CALL: Two more minutes of sunlight every day - two more minutes of sunlight
That's the way this world grows a little brighter - that's the way-ay-ay...

RESPONSE: Two more....two more – minutes – every day
That's the way - that's the way this world grows a little brighter

SINGABAHAMBA (Sesotho, Bantu) sung widely as an anti apartheid anthem.

Singabhambayo thina, kulomphlaba kepha sinekhaya, ezulwini x 2
Sithi! Halleluya, Sithi! halleluya Sithi! halleluya halleluya halelu (sithi!) ya x 2

*On earth an army is marching. We're going home/to heaven.
Our hearts are filled with song. We sing out strong. Halleluia!*

THE PILGRIM SONG by Pauline Down

Translation of the Taize chant: De noche iremos, de noche, que para encontrar la fuente Solo la sed nos alumbra, solo la sed nos alumbra...

VERSE 1: We go in the STILL of the night / to seek - the source of life
Thirst alone, thirst alone WILL BE OUR light x 2

VERSE 2: We go in the DEEP of the night / to seek the source of life
Thirst alone, thirst alone OUR ONLY light x 2

WHEN LOVE HAD NO ROAD by Alison Burns. Text by Clare Shaw

YES SECTION! (All): Yes – say yes – say yes – say yes
(then HIGH): Put the word of your hand in mine and say yes

LOW: Love had no road we / we shouldered its dirt (and / we)
Laid aside our hurt (and built it) when love - needed a road

MIDDLE & HIGH: 'Cos when love had no road – we built it
We shouldered its stones and its dirt and built it
We laid aside our hurt and built it - when love – needed a road...
